Twenty-fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Jesus is incredibly realistic. He knows the human heart entirely because he is fully God and fully man. And so, He knows it's impossible for us to serve two masters. And so, Jesus puts it bluntly: "No servant can serve two masters. He will either hate one and love the other or be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and wealth." In modern terms, we might say you can't have two full-time careers without prioritizing one over the other.

Therefore, in today's Gospel Jesus asks us to check our hearts. Whom do we serve? Do we serve God, or have we made ourselves slaves of material possessions? Money is not a bad thing. In fact, the Catechism of the Catholic Church reminds us differences in levels of wealth "belong to God's plan, who wills that each receives what he needs from others and that those endowed with particular 'talents' share the benefits with those who need them" (CCC 1937).

Those who have been given the gift of wealth have a duty to use it wisely for the good of their brothers and sisters. But the love of money is destructive. It takes our minds off of heaven. It hardens our hearts to the needs of our brothers and sisters. It makes us anxious and unsettled, terrified we might lose our nest egg of security.

If we cling to the good things God has given us, and try to possess them, we lose them. But if we treat them as gifts of God, which are good but subordinate to him, we keep them for eternity.

Examine our Anxiety: St Francis De Sales said an accurate way to gauge our attachment to money is to ask one simple question. "Am I filled with excessive anxiety at financial setbacks – or even at the mere thought of them?" He wants to set our hearts free, so we're not enslaved to anything. He wants to be our great treasure, because only in him can our souls truly be at rest. The recent death of Charlie Kirk is a reminder of how anxiety can weigh heavily on the human heart. I have added him to my Mass intentions, entrusting him to the mercy of God. Any anxiety we feel in response to his passing, we give over to the Lord, who is the only one who can bring peace to our hearts.

God bless,

Sign-up sheets are on the bulletin board in the atrium for those of you who are able to donate a prize. Thank you!

Faith Formation is still in need of substitute teachers. Sometimes starting out as a substitute or helper makes one more comfortable with teaching full time. Please do not ever UNDERESTIMATE your ability to teach. The only skills you need is to enjoy sharing the faith with the children and loving Jesus. Volunteers are required to complete the Virtus training, which is all online now.

Altar Servers needed!

Altar servers have the privilege of assisting the priest in the sanctuary during the Mass and other liturgical functions. Would you be willing to serve our parish in this capacity? We are looking for people of all ages to help in this important role. Please contact the parish office for more information.

Can you spare a little bit of your time and your talents to help at St. Michael's? We are in need of ushers, lectors, servers, and money counters. These volunteer opportunities require very little time commitment, but would be a tremendous help and service to the church. Contact the office for more information.

Pope Leo XIV meets with Bishop Kenney, other bishops during annual formation courses

Bishop Kevin Kenney of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis was among the bishops who met with Pope Leo XIV for the Vatican's annual formation courses for new bishops.

Catholic News Service (CNS) reported close to 200 clerics who had been named bishops in the past year met with Pope Leo XIV in Rome for the formation.

"Maybe some of you are still saying: Why was I chosen? At least I ask myself that," the pope said Sept. 11, according to CNS. "The gift you have received is not for yourselves, but to serve the cause of the Gospel. You have been chosen and called to be sent out as apostles of the Lord and as servants of the faith."

The pope spent more than three hours with the bishops, CNS reported, then spent roughly 90 minutes listening to the bishops' concerns and responding to their questions behind closed doors.

The pope "shared his story and encouraged all of us to live the calls we have received," Bishop Kenney said in a text message. "He is a very humble man and sincere in his words and actions!"

Bishop Kenney said that at the end of the gathering, the pope took a photo with each bishop individually.

"I thanked him for his words of prayer for Annunciation at the Angelus two Sundays ago," Bishop Kenney said. "I gave him an Annunciation VIP button and wished him a 'Happy Birthday!' As I left, he looked me in the eyes and said, 'God bless you!'"
